Sydney: World’s liveliest economies are expected to boost global growth to 4.4%, or twice as much as the 2.2% projected for the world as a whole, according to a report by the Australian government on Tuesday.

"The global economy is on the mend and is expected to grow at a healthy pace," the government said in its annual economic report. "This is good news for Australia and the world, and it’s a testament to the determination of policymakers and businesses around the world to get their economies back on track."
